FOREMAN OF THE WORK ARRESTED. A blast fired on a rock excavation on the east side of Lexington-ave., between Ninety-seventh and Ninety-eighth sts., about 11 o'clock yesterday morning threw pieces of rock in every direction and injured four men who were working in an excavation on the west side of the avenue, nearly 300 feet away. The injured men are:

MUNCHER, Michael, thirty-three years old, of No. One-hundred-and-thirteenth-st.; wounded in the ad and left side, and in a dangerous condition

BAEBI, Pasquaie, thirty-six years old, of No. 313 East One-hundred-and-thirteenth-st.; serious scalp wounds and fracture of the skull. CORGEE, John, twenty-seven years old, of No. 311 East dred-and-thirteenth-st.; serious scalp wounds. William, thirty-six years old, of No. 411 Eas One-hundred-and-thirteenth-st.; left leg broken. All the injured men were taken to the Presbyterian Hospital and all are doing well, except Muncher, who is likely to die of his injuries. Patrick Reddy, contractor, of No. 411 East One-undred-and-twenty-first-st., is engaged in blasting the rock, which is about twenty feet high on the east side of Lexington-ave., between Ninetyseventh and Ninety-eighth sts., and is also excabig store in Sixth-ave., between Twentieth and Twenty-first sis. A Christmas dinner was presented to each clerk in the employ of the firm, and it was appreciated. At 6 o'clock last night, no present could have been more welcome. And the dinner was a good one, as good a one as any person could ask for. There were soup and fish and meats, vegetables, desserts and all the components of a long-

The first instalment of employes entered the big dining-room on the fifth floor of the establishment about 5:39 o'clock. There were about four hundred of them. The scats for those employed in the offices and for the heads of departments were ranged along the Twentieth-st. side of the room. Next to them sat the men clerks, and on the opposite side, occupying more than half the dining-room, were the young women. The cash girls had tables at the rear of the room. But no matter what their station, or where their scats, right or left, front or rear, sill were served the same. Between 5:30 and 8:30 o'clock 2:500 people were fed in this room. The kitchens were a scene of wonderful activity and, osspite the unusual rush, a marvel of cleanliness. Every one seemed happy. The Twentieth-st side of the dining-room was comparatively quilet, but, once among the girls, the pandemonium of voices was more prohibitive of sober thought than the proverbial hall factory.

For the last two weeks, ever since O'Neill's opened for evening customers, the employes have had a dinner every evening in the restaurant at the top of the building. But last night was the last night for late work, and it was Christmas Eve, and the dinner was a gala one.

CHRISTMAS EVE AT A HOSPITAL.

Christmas Eve was celebrated at the New-York Hospital by the distribution of gifts to the inmates of the children's ward, to the head, senior and junior nurses of the hospital training-school for nurses, and to the physicians and other officials of the hospital. The children's ward was the scene of the festivities. It was beautifully decorated with evergreen wreaths and holly, while a large revolvstood almost in the centre of the room. As the tree revolved the lights changed from red to white, from white to blue, then to green, and many other harmonizing colors. To the right of the tree was a revolving wheel, which formed kaleldoscopic pictures of various colors as it was turned.

The cots of the little inmates, numbering about twenty, were arranged in a semi-circle facing the twenty, were arranged in a semi-circle facing the wheel and tree. Many former inmates of the ward recently discharged were present. So happy were the children that they seemed to forget for the time being all about their ills. They watched everythink taking place for their amusement with eyes wide open and faces wreathed in smiles. Behind the cots were seated the nurses and the graduates of the training-school and their friends, including many members of the visiting and house staff of physicians.

Superintendent George P. Ludlam distributed the gifts. He had a kindly word to say to the unfortunate children under his care, to the nurses and the doctors, and to all the visitors present. Each child received an armful of gifts, and beautiful and useful presents were given to the nurses and doctors. Several of the nurses and physicians received alarm clocks, causing everybody present to smile. Many handsome gifts were given to the heads of the hospital, the clerks and the nurses, by the mother of Andrew Carney, who has been in the hospital several months and is a general favorite.

Among those present were Dr. Robert F. Weir, Mrs. Denike, the directress of the nurses; Dr. Frank Perguson, Drs. G. W. Foster and Gouverneur N. Smith.

This morning the nurses of the hospital will go through each ward singing Christmas carols, a custom which has been in vogue there for many years.

A BICYCLIST RUN DOWN.

August Hahn, of No. % Fifteenth-ave., Long land City, who is connected with the Croton Lake lice Company, was knocked down and seriously injured at Seventh-ave. and One-hundred-andtwenty-fifth-st. at noon yesterday by a horse driven by Thomas Everett, of No. 24 West One-hundred-and-eighty-seventh-st. Mr. Everett was driving down Seventh-ave. in a dog cart, accompanied by a friend, when he was compelled to rein in his horse. friend, when he was compelled to rein in his horse. The horse shied at a cable car and, becoming unmanageable, started on a run down the avenue. The horse had gone only a few yards when it struck Hahn's bicycle, throwing him to the roadway and falling upon him and his wheel. Hahn was considerably bruised and his wheel was completely wrecked. Policeman Reinhard, of the West One-hundred-and-twenty-fithest, station, caucht the horse and assisted Hahn to the sidewalk. No arrests were made as Mr. Everett gave his card and promised to pay for the damages. Hahn went home in a cab.

WESTCHESTER COUNTY.

YONKERS.

At the meeting of the Common Council on Monday night Mayor Peene vetoed the resolution adopted at the meeting of December 9 last, approving the recommendation of the petition of certain taxpayers asking for the erection of the municipal building on the Manor Hall grounds. The Mayor refers to his message on the subject as the reason for his veto. He says in addition: "I think we ought to stop making declarations on this subject, and if we propose to do anything to go to work in definite shape. We have in the last two years made a number inconsistent declarations. It seems to me that we inconsistent declarations. It seems to me that we ought to finally adopt some plan for the erection of a municipal building, and have prepared plans and specifications, and not be passing resolutions approving and disapproving petitions of others presented to us." The veto was sustained by a vote of 12 to 2, Aldermen Mooney and Reynolds voting in the negative. The action of the Council is pleasing to those who believe in preserving Manor Hall and its grounds in their entirety. A communication was received from the Board of Fire Commissioners that they had resolved to turn the present volunteer department into a partially paid department. They estimated the expense for conducting it for 186 at 25,000. The communication was referred to the Committee of the Whole. The Council approved the plans and specifications prepared by Commissioner Cooper, and at the meeting of January 13 next bids will be received for erecting them. The election of Patrick J. Curran as Alderman for the Sixth Ward at the special election held on December 16 made necessary a revision of the committees.

At the Leake and Watts Orphan Home in Hawthorne-awe, last night the children had a Christmas tree, and presented a pretty cantata, entitled "The Birth of Christ." The tree was lighted at the close of the cantata, and each child received its gifts. Today from noon till 3 o'clock in the afternoon a New-England dinner will be served to men at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon a dinner to the poor children of the city will be given at the barracks of the Salvation Army. ought to finally adopt some plan for the erection of

MOUNT VERNON.

The public schools of the city were closed yesterday, and will be opened again January 2. At some of the schools the closing exercises, musical and literary in their character, were held on Monday, but in Nos. 1, 2, 4, 6 and 7 they were held yesterday. In No. 1, which is the largest of the schools, having an attendance of about 900 children, the exercises were of special interest, the principal part eing a cantata, "St. Nicholas," conducted by Pro-being a cantata, "St. Nicholas," conducted by Professor Alfred Hallam, the musical instructor of the schools. In all of the schools the exercises were of an appropriate nature.

Judge William H. Bard gave an interesting illustrated lecture on "The World's Fair" in the hullding of School No. 5. West Mount Vernon, on Monday night. It was one of the free course arranged by the Board of Education, and the assembly hall was crowded with an appreciative audience.

Christmas Eve was celebrated by the Sunday school of the Presbyterian Church last night. In addition to the singing of glees, there were a huge Christmas tree and a Santa Claus who gave a present to each member on the rolls of the Sunday school.

STATEN ISLAND NOTES.

The Midland Railroad has secured the grant of a franchise for a trolley line from the town line of Southfield to the village of Richmond, over the Richmond road, from the Town Board of Southfield. The Board of Supervisors yesterday settled the Excise Board muddle by making two appointments. The Board first appointed Augustus E. Rolle, of Westfield, to represent that town. Rolle is a Democrat. The Board later received the resignation of George Tranter (Dem.), of Northfield, and appointed Abram Greenwald (Dem.), of that town to repre-steamship Salerno arrived here yesterday morning after an unusual experience with rough weather off Hatteras. The vessel belongs to the Hammonia Line, her skipper being Captain John Scharmberg and her chief officer Carl Mueller. She plies between New-York and Brazilian ports On November 20 she left Rio Janeiro with a cargo of $,500 bags of coffee. On December 5 she put into St. Lucia for coal, and then kept on her course for New-York.

The Salerno was abreast of Cape Hatteras on December 12, and encountered heavy gales from the north and high head seas. The sturdy vessel, which is a good seaboat, fought hard against the seas. Several times she was boarded by immense waves that swept over the bridge, and rushing aft washed everything movable before them. It was the most tempestuous sea Captain Scharmberg had ever enintered. On the morning of December 14 he de countered. On the morning of December 14 he decided to turn tall and run before the gale, which had veered to the north-northwest, and he set his course for the island of Bermuda.

Riggings, boats and rails on the port side had been smashed. He struck the coast of Bermuda and had to run nearly around the island before he could find an anchorage on the northeast end.

The Salerno stayed there four days, and on the morning of the Test started for New-York. The run was made in two days and twenty-two hours.
Captain Scharmberg has commanded the Salerno for three years. Before that time he was skipper the Saverence, it is 540 miles from Hatteras to for three years. Before that time he was skipper of the Sorrento. It is 540 miles from Hatteras to the Bermudas, and the skipper of the Salerno decided, as he said yesterday, that it was more economical to fly before the wind than fight against

THE REGISTER'S OFFICE.

It was rumored about the Court of General Sessions yesterday that the December Grand Jury, when sions yesterday that the December Grand Jury, when they adjourn for the term Friday next, would hand down a presentment against the Register's Office. The rumor had it that the Grand Jury would recom-mend a more suitable building and also different methods of conducting the public business.

THE MAINE BOUND FOR HAMPTON ROADS. The United States cruiser Maine, Captain A. S. Crowninshield, which stopped here en route Newport on Monday morning, passed Sandy Hook at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, bound outward. The Maine is under orders to join Admiral Bunce's flag at Hampton Roads.

RUN OVER AND DANGEROUSLY HURT. Mrs. Rose Callahan, fifty-two years old, of No. 226 West Fortieth-st., was run over last night at Fortieth-st, and Ninth-ave, by a wagon belonging to Adam's drygoods store, Sixth-ave, and Twenty-second-st. Mrs. Callahan received internal inju-ries, and was taken to Roosevelt Hospital, where she lies in a precarious condition.

WORKING FOR THE CONVENTION.

The Finance Committee of the Sub-Committee of One Hundred appointed to attend to the details necessary to make a fight for the next Democratic National Convention held a meeting in the rooms of the Uptown Association, in the Constable Build-ing, at Broadway and Eighteenth-st., yesterday afternoon. The members of the Finance Committee are Isidore Straus, chairman; John D. Crimmins, Robert B. Roosevelt and General Daniel Butterfield. They appointed upward of forty committees. For the Committee on Transportation these persons were selected: John D. Crimmins, Hermann Oelrichs and General Butterfield. J. H. Breslin, of the Glisey House, and Simeon Ford, of the Grand Union Hotel, were chosen a Committee on Hotel Flower to act as treasurer. The Washington head-quarters will be the Arlington Hotel, which will be in charge of John B. Trainor. These persons were added to the sub-committee: John H. Inman, Joseph C. Hendrix, Ashbel Fitch and Isaac Rosen-wald.

NOTES FROM THE NAVY YARD.

The Brooklyn Navy Yard will be closed to-day, "no bell ring" being the order of the day. A large number of the sailors on the Vermont will have ere leave, and those who stay on board will have a feast of roast turkey. They had the choice of their Christmas dinner, and failed to agree with the men in the marine barracks, who decided on a dinner of roast pig, which they will have. The second of the Maine's torpedo-boats went out on a trial trip yesterday, making the run over the measured mile on the Hudson River, accomthe measured fille on the Russon River, accom-panied by a steam launch from the receiving-ship. The run was in charge of Lieutenant A. C. Dil-lingham, assistant to the captain of the yard. The Chicago was floated out of the timber dock yesterday morning, in tow of the lugs Nina and Narkeeta. She was taken out to make room for the Texas, which is expected to have an over-hauling of her bilge pipes and some other minor repairs.

A FEW WESTERN INVENTIONS.

From the Neihart (Mont.) Herald.

The craze for inventions has struck camp. Jay Walker has a patent dinner-pall which automatically fills itself, producing the finest steaks, hot cakes and coffee while you walt. James Bradey is working upon a contrivance by which he will run an electric light and power plant by wind. The recent fad of our leading citizens to chew enuff has led to a movement in the Council to establish public snuff boxes on every street corner, to accommodate the ruling fashion. Richard Bennett has invented a device for filing ideas and old thoughts for future reference. Touch the spring and you have your idea. Jud Calkins is putting in his spars time on a talking machine that is intended to cluckate public questions with greater volubility than any of the local lights are able to do, and to talk when everyhody else has quit. Max Roehl is building a deer hunting device that will kill at ten miles and do its own timing. He claims the bullet will follow the deer till it gets him. All these plans in successful operation and Neihart will lead the world in point of modern improvements and advanced ideas.

Professor Albert S. Bickmore will lecture this afternoon at the American Museum of Natural History, Seventy-seventh-st, and Eighth-ave., on The Catskills and the Adirondacks." Bickmore's lectures, which are free and given upon legal holidays, always attract large audiences, and to-day's subject promises material fully as interesting as any of the preceding lectures.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art is open the public from 10 a. m. to sunset on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays; on Sunday afternoons from 1 o'clock to sunset, and on the evenings of Mondays and Fridays. On Mondays and Fridays from 16 o'clock until sunset copyists, art students and members of the Museum only are admitted free; others have to pay an entrance fee of 25 cents on these two days.

The Museum of Natural History is open on weekdays from 9 to 5 o'clock. On Tuesday and Saturday evenings from 8 to 10 o'clock the public is admitted free. On Sundays it is open from 1 to 5 o'clock. Admission is charged on Mondays and Tuesdays.

THE CONTRACTORS YIELDING.

SIGNS THAT THE TAILORS' LOCKOUT WILL SOON END.

There was much rejoicing on the East Side yes terday, caused by the rumor that the contractors had given up their fight against the tailors and were about to call the lockout off. The excitement caused by the good news even extended to the little children playing in the streets, "Hurrah! Hurrah!" shouted one small boy, "they will open the shops to-morrow!" and the cry was soon taken up on all sides in the neighborhood of Walhalla Hall, in Orchard-st. A settlement of the trouble will probably be made before the end of the week.

The contractors have begun to stampede from the control of the officers of the Clothing Contractors' Mutual Protective Association, Six of them applied to the Brotherhood of Tallors yesterday for the return of their men. They said they would open their shops for business to-morrow morning at the usual hour. They signed the tailors' agree ment, and tore down the lockout cards which were posted up in their shops. A general breaking up of the lockout is expected to-day. Much enthusiasm prevailed at the mass-meeting of the tailors in Wal halla Hall yesterday afternoon, and speeches were made by Meyer Schoenfeld, Herman Robinson, Henry White, general secretary of the United Garment Workers of America, and many others.

Meyer Schoenfeld, when asked by porter if the rumor of a speedy settlement of the lockout was true, replied that it was. "I cannot tell all I know at present," continued Mr. Schoen-feld, "as it might hinder the good work which is indication that the whole thing will be settled to morrow, and that the tailors will return to work on Thursday. The shops will be got in order tomorrow. The largest contractor in the city was among those who gave in to-day."

No meetings will be held by the tailors to-day, on account of the Christmas holiday, although the tailors, as well as the contractors, are mostly Hebrews. An Irishman, however, was discovered Hebrews. An Irisaman, however, was among the contractors yesterday. He said he came to this city thirty-six years ago, but refused to say how long he had been a clothing contractor. He also refused to give his name. "That's me own," he said, in reply to all other questions. He spoke with a pronounced brozue, and was a unique figure among the crowd of Hebrew contractors. He is the only clothing contractor in the city, it is said, who is not an Israelite.

CARBOLIC ACID FOUND NEAR GLASS WHEN HIS BODY WAS DISCOVERED.

and daughter of Robert Glass, an undertaker, of No. 23 St. Mark's Place, returned to their home late yesterday afternoon after a day's Christmas shopping and found the husband and father dead in his bed. The daughter informed the police sent to the house. He found a bottle sent to the house. He found a bottle containing some carbolic acid and a glass which smelled of the polson in the room in which Glass died. The police believe it to be suicide. The family declare that Glass died of heart disease.

Glass left Stolis's undertaking rooms, in the Bowery, about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and upon arriving home seemed to be in good spirits. He went to his room and undressed himself. He was found in bed. Glass leaves a widow and three children. Nothing can be learned of any motive for suicide. Glass is said to have been despondent for some time.

A JUDGMENT AGAINST ROSE COGHLAN. A deficiency judgment for $5,529 was docketed yesterday against Rosamond Maria Sullivan, better known as Rose Coghlan, the actress, in favor of Judson Lawson, growing out of the sale of her house, No. 47 West Ninety-sixth-st., in October last, under foreclosure of a second mortgage, on which $11,147 was due. The first mortgage was $15,000. The property was bought in, it is said, by Mr. Lawson for $21,580.

HE HAD BEEN READING DIME NOVELS. Jackson, Ohio, Dec. 24.-John Turner, a lad of eighteen, was arrested here this morning on the charge of wrecking a freight train on the Ohio Southern road last night. As a freight train was nearing this city at Price's switch, Turner sprang nearing this city at Price's switch. Turner sprang from the bushes and turned the switch. The engi-neer could not slacken speed, and the engine and several cars were ditched. Both engineer and fire-man saved their lives by jumping. When arrested this morning Turner made a full confession, stat-ing that he had been reading a novel about train-wreckers.

HE REFUSES TO BE SWORN BEFORE THE CITIES COMMITTEE.

THE SENATOR SAYS HE CRITICISED THE BRIDGE MANAGEMENT AS A CITIZEN-HE MAY BE

Senator Daniel Bradley, of Brooklyn, again openly defied the Assembly Cities Committee yesterday, agement was closed without his testimony. He appeared in Room 13 of the City Hall soon after . m., when the committee was ready to hear him, and C. W. Zaring, of counsel for the committee asked him to take the witness chair. Joseph L. Whittet presided. "Uncle Dan" looked in fighting trim as he took his seat in the chair. He had his snuffbox in one hand and a blackthorn stick in the

"We have asked you here to-day to be sworn," said Chairman Whittet. "Do you wish to be

"No, sir." emphatically replied the Senator, taking a pinch of snuff and glaring at the committee.

"That is all, Senator," said Mr. Whittet, coldly. "I would like to say that I meant no insult to the committee by my abrupt refusal to be sworn," said the Senator. "I never have been financially interested in the management or construction of the with the bridge, and any suggestions or remarks bridge, either for or against it. I claim that I made by my right as a citizen. I say that it is not right to bring me here, and if this thing went on the committee could go to any person on Broadway and summon him here to testify. I want to say that I am just as jealous of my rights as a citizen as Grover Cleveland is of the Monroe Doctrine."

James King Duffy, of counsel for the committee, said that the Senator did not stand upon his Senatorial right, and it was not the intention of this committee to inquire into any matters discussed or referred to upon the floor of the Senate. The committee wished to question him regarding newspaper interviews on April 15, 1894, and other statements made by him outside of the Senate, for which he could not stand on his Senatorial right.

Mr. Bradley listened attentively to Mr. Duffy's statement, and replied: "It is not in the power of any legislative committee to get at what I want, and for that reason I do not want anything to do with this investigation."

Then he rose slowly from his chair, cast one withering glance at the committee, and left the room.

The committee then waited a long time for Conbridge, either for or against it, I claim that I made room.

The committee then waited a long time for Controller Fitch, who was expected as a witness, and the counsel said the committee would report Senator Bradley's refusal to be sworn and recommend that he be punished for contempt.

After the final adjournment of the committee Controller Fitch came into the room. He said he was sorry he was not present before the adjournment was taken. "I say," said he, "that Chief Engineer Martin is thoroughly incompetent, and that the facilities of the Brooklyn Bridge are a disgrace, and I, as a New-Yorker, am ashamed of them."

Mr. Cuiver, who is a clerk in the Custom House, returned home at 5:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon and found Miss McDermott lying on her bed, unconscious, and on a table beside her stood a glass which had contained carbolic acid. Mr. Culver summoned Dr. Bird, of No. 235 West One-hundred-and-twenty-third-st., who did all he could to relieve the suffering woman, but without avail. She died in a few minutes. In a blank envelope on the table in the woman's room was a note, which read as follows: "Mr. Culver has nothing to do with this act of mine."

Miss McDermott had been ill with a cold for some time, and was despondent in consequence. Mr. Culver knows of no other reason for the suicide. The flat consists of five rooms, and he and his housekeeper were the only occupants. He left the house early in the evening, as he said, to inform the dead woman's relatives, but he did not say who they were or where they lived. conscious, and on a table beside her stood a glass

The death of Henry J. Newton, who was run down by a cable-car at Broadway and Twentythird-st. on Monday evening, was a cause of profound and w'despread regret yesterday. Mr. New-ton's high character, his genial and sympathetic nature, and his strong interest in all things pertaining to the welfare of his fellow-men were dwelt upon by his friends. What shocked them, however, was the statement of the gripman, Miller, that Mr. Newton might have thrown himself purposely in front of the cable-ear. The evidence secured was accustomed to visit George P. Slosson's billlard-rooms, at Twenty-second-st. and Broadway, almost every weekday. He went from those rooms to his death on Monday evening. Mr. Slosson said yesterday: "Mr. Newton came here nearly every day. He reached here yesterday at 4 p. m., and remained playing hillierds until a few minutes after 6 o'clock. He was in excellent spirits. some Christmas gifts which he had for his family at the desk with Mr. Chapman, the cashier, and a model gentieman, and never took a drink of any kind here. TWO KINDS STILL TO BE FOUND, THE RATTLER AND THE COPPERHEAD.

regular meeting of the Linnaean Society last evening at the American Museum of Natural mars said in part:

mars said in part:

There are two sorts of poisonous snakes still found near New-York, namely, the rattlesnake and the copper-head. The rattle-snake is found in Putnam County, near the Hudson River. The copper-head is more numerous than the rattler, and, although it is rapidly becoming extinct, it is found in the spring and autumn on rocky ground near the Hudson River. The milk snake is common in the vicinty of New-York. It derives its name from its peculiar habit of entering dairies, not to get milk, as is commonly thought, but to secure mice. It is a useful reptile, owing to its habit of destroying harmful rodents, and the farmer should spare its life. The black snake, both the racer and the pilot, are also valuable allies of the farmer, but are rapidly being killed off. The notion that any snakes swallow their young when frightened has been exploded, and all students of reptiles agree that the thing is impossible. The variety known as the "hormose" snake often performs an interesting and curious feat when it is suddenly attacked. The reptile will seem to exhaust itself by violently thrashing about until it lies on the ground at full length seemingly dead, but if left alone a moment it will raise its head and glide away. Many of our most common snakes may easily be captured.

Mr. Ditmars's paper was followed by a general discussion of the subject, after which Mr. Ditmars exhibited specimens of all the varieties of snakes found in this vicinity.

Vice-President Frank M. Chapman, who presided in the absence of the president, announced that a course of lectures had been arranged, beginning on January 14, when Dr. Franz Boaz will lecture on "The Indians of Vancouver Island."

THE NUTLEY GYMKAHNA GAMES. The Nutley Gymkahna Games, to be given at enth-st., on Friday evening, in aid of Grace Protestant Episcopal Church, Nutley, N. J., are the subject of a curious communication from H. C. Bunner to "The New-York Sun" yesterday.

Bunner, who edits "Puck," but lives at Nutley, says:
In behalf of my late associates in the management of the Nutley Amateur Circus, allow me to state that the affairs of that concern were wholly wound up long ago, and the proceeds paid over to the trustees of the charitable fund for which it was organized, and also that none of the promoters and managers of the circus is directly or indirectly connected with any enterprise making use of its reme.

At Dickel's Riding Academy, a Tribune reporter learned that James R. Hay, a real estate agent, at No. 7 Wall-st., had engaged the building where the games are to take place. Mr. Hay was not at his Nutley home last night. Frank Fowler and F. S. Marden, members of the committee arranging for the present games, were seen, but declined to talk.

most cheerful of moods at 6:19 p. m. later his dead body was in a neighboring express office."

Melville C. Smith, of No. 32 Liberty-st., who has known Mr. Newton intimately for twenty-live years, said yesterday: "The idea of suicide in relation to Henry J. Newton's death is ridiculous. He had everything to live for. He was rich, had no anxiety and was in perfect health. He was simply killed. The gripman ought to be proceeded against for darling to seek to shield himself under any such false pretense." The comments of those living in the neighborhood of the accident were strong against the cable company's recklessness in running its Lexington-ave, cars at speed from Twenty-thirdst into Broadway at the turning point.

Dr. John B. Huber, coroner's physician, held the autopsy at 5 p. m., and amounced the cause of Mr. Newton's death to be "shock due to a fracture of the sternum, rupture of the heart and right lung, and fracture of the skuil." There was a large wound on the back of the head, under which was the fracture. The left hip was dislocated, and there were various contusions on the body.

The funeral will be held to-morrow at 4:39 p. m. at the Church of the Divine Paternity. The interment will follow on Friday, in Greenwood Cemetery
